Strategy for improvement of slow and advanced learners.

Our institute takes care of advanced and slow learners by implementing various techniques throughout the year. In the beginning of every academic year through common meeting principal gives instructions to the teachers about identifying slow and advanced learners. Following this instructions every faculty identify slow and advanced learners and make appropriate teaching plan to bring improvement in slow learners and to motivate advanced learners.

Advance Learners

In our institution advanced learners are given special attention. The students who secures maximum marks in class test, unit test and seminars those were considered as advanced learners. After classification of students as advanced learner we have taken some steps to boost their performance. Teachers give home assignments, more books, library references for advanced reading, as well as given website links for their further study.

Teachers organize group discussions and seminars in class to provide a platform for advanced learners. Teachers inspire advanced learners to participate in various Co-curricular activities such as debate, elocution competitions, etc. As a result advanced learner take interest in curricular and co-curricular activities. Their percentage of marks has been increased and they always remain eager to acquire advanced knowledge.

Slow Learners

In our institution teachers give more attention to slow learners. Slow learners are identified through the students' performance in qualifying examination and class test, unit test, etc.

Teachers give special attention to the slow learners while teaching. Students who have got less marks in class test, unit test, for such students teacher provide notes give them assignments to write, teacher asks average level question to students in class so that they get motivation for study and they come to class with preparation. Teachers take efforts to strengthen the confidence of students who are introverts and hesitate to talk in class. Teachers carried out various activities such as group discussion, presentation on particular topic and question answers.

As a result advanced and slow learners are motivated and their performance in exam is found increased.
